

Mary & Jenny in Bali

Contributed by Ron B
Monday, 12 May 2008
Last Updated Monday, 12 May 2008

Mary & Jenny in Bali From left, dining at home, out after (elusive) dolphins, and in Candi Dasa where we resolved to always eat on the water-front. This lunch was at Ida's.

Bear the entrance to Tirta Gangga Water Place, Mary and Chonki negotiating the stepping stones, and at a restaurant in Ubud. You may think we were always eating - but really it is just when I remembered I had a camera.

Read on for more photos.

As we drove north, we got waved past a large crowd gathering for a ceremony, so then decided to stop on the roadside and watch as the procession passed us. The top row shows the approaching procession, and in the second row you can see the ogeh-ogeh , the musicians, and finally the end of the procession passing our car.